SATURDAY EVENING, AUGUST 5, 1882.

HOLDING BY A TELEGRAPH WIRE.—During the high water now prevailing in Dan river, the Richmond and Danville railroad company has kept a watchman and assistants in a boat near the new iron bridge to guard it, and especially the temporary tressed-work, from the drift-wood brought down by the high water. Tuesday evening, while three of these watchmen were on duty together in a boat, it got beyond their control in the rapid current of the river and was borne with great velocity down the river. The telegraph wires had been taken from their fastenings on the bridge, pending the work, and were swinging down to the surface of the water. As the boat was passing these wires they caught Mr. Steadman, one of the watchmen, and jerked him out of the boat. He held on to one of the wires with his hands, his body in the water, and for an hour and a half held himself up by clinging to this single wire. Assistance was procured and after an hour and a half's effort to reach him he was rescued from his perilous position. The two other men remained in the boat and were finally able to reach the bank of the river, opposite Reed Island, in safety. —Danville Register.

A HUSBAND DECEIVED.—The Wheeling (W. Va.) Register publishes a confession from Mrs. John Scarlott, the wife of an iron molder of that city, to the effect that she had on three different occasions obtained infants from the Philadelphia almshouse and successfully palmed them off on her unsuspecting husband. The first and second died, but the third is a pretty little girl of five years, to whom its "parents" are greatly attached.
